THE ART OF LIVING...

"...life is indeed darkness save when there is urge, and all urge is blind save when there is knowledge; and all knowledge is in vain save when there is work; and all work is empty save when there is love; and when you work with love, you bind yourself to yourself and to one another."

THE ART OF ACHIEVEMENT...

"...does not come from doing easy work, but from the after glow of satisfaction that comes with the achievement of a difficult task that demanded our best."

THE ART OF FRIENDSHIP AND PEACE...

"...are qualities of the heart as well as the head. It is a warmth, an enthusiasm, a magnetism that reaches out and draws people together in understanding and love."

"...AND LET YOUR BEST be for your friend. If he must know the ebb of your tide let him know the flood also. For what is a friend that you should seek him with hours to kill? Seek him always with hours to live."

The Prophet

"...and he alone is great who turns the voice of the wind into a song made sweeter by his loving."

THE ART OF CREATIVITY...

"...Organic architecture is natural architecture, true to the nature of the site, true to the nature of the materials used; and it is also honest, because it is planned for a particular place, time, and client. . .the true architect sees architecture never as a business, but always as a utility, and his concern must always be for the heart of humanity. Architecture, the great mother-art, can give new resources for living happily."

Frank Lloyd Wright

THE ART OF INDIVIDUALITY...

"... 'Think as I think,' said a man, 'or you are abominably wicked, you are a toad.' ... And after I had thought of it, I said, 'I will, then, be a toad.'"

Stephen Crane

"A people, it appears, may be progressive for a certain length of time, and then stop. When does it stop? When it ceases to possess individuality."

John Stuart Mill

"Individualism is a fatal poison. But individuality is the salt of common life. You may have to live in a crowd, but you do not have to live like it, nor subsist on its food. You may have your own orchard. You may drink at a hidden spring. Be yourself if you would serve others."

Henry Van Dyke

"I celebrate myself, and sing myself,
And what I assume you shall assume,
For every atom belonging to me as good belongs to you."

Walt Whitman, Song of Myself

"SOME PEOPLE SEE THINGS AS THEY ARE AND SAY 'WHY?' I DREAM THINGS
AS THEY NEVER WERE AND SAY, 'WHY NOT?'"

Robert F. Kennedy

THE ART OF AWARENESS...

'Thoreau wrote, 'Only that day dawns to which we are awake.' The Art of Awareness is the art of learning how to wake up to the eternal miracle of life with its limitless possibilities.'

THE ART OF ENTHUSIASM...

"...is a leaping lightning, not to be measured by the horse-power of the understanding."

Emerson

"...it is that temper of the mind in which the imagination has got the better of the judgement."

Bishop Warburton

Mrs. Fern Epler

The Times and Life of each student, are changing, so each teacher must change with the times and learn to help the student in their world of today." According to Mr. McInerney, this is one of the most important responsibilities of the high school teacher today. This is a basic inspiration of each and every English teacher on the San Leandro High staff. The world around them is changing, and so, through English, they are trying to teach the student the basic concepts of this study. A chief concern of the English teacher is trying to reach the student on his own terms, so that he appreciates the subject fully. "Kids are different each year, so most of us try to do something different each time. We try to give English a fresh and new approach, so that we learn to appreciate it as much as the student." We have some fine examples of finding new ways of teaching English. Our own Mr. Crabbe has been appointed to the California English Committee which decides and plans the basic programming that the secondary English departments will use. It is our teacher like Mr. Crabbe, and others, who are making San Leandro High English department a great way to learn.

Instruction Variations

for this school year, ranging to include every type of student, is the goal of the Social Studies department. Through individual instruction, it is the hope of each teacher that the student will progress at a faster rate and comprehend a broader scope of knowledge. Experimentation in teaching from the past to the present has proven to keep the student interest. However, this year teachers tried teaching from present to past, which proved itself very successful. The teacher's purpose is to bring literature, art, and other areas of learning into the Social Studies programming. To tie in the relationship of the world with that of Social Studies is the concern of each teacher. To help each student like and understand Social Studies, is what the course is all about.

Mr. John Garcia has joined the San Leandro High School faculty, as a new addition to the Math department. Mr. Garcia, a graduate of San Leandro High School, has returned to teach at his alma mater. He received his B.A. and Masters degrees at Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo.

Besides teaching five math classes, Mr. Garcia coaches the sophomore basketball and the Junior Varsity baseball teams.

Miss Giovanna Sensi-Isolani

With The Addition of a new teacher, Miss Sensi-Isolani, the Science department has many new and creative ideas for this school year.

Miss Sensi-Isolani instructs classes in Biology and Human Development. Human Development is a new study course that began this year. Its basic functions are to bring the unfamiliar areas of the human structure to a better understanding with students. Thus far, the class is only for girls, but it possibly may be expanded in the future.

One of the Science Department's best qualities has been in using live examples in their lectures. The Science teachers have had every type of specimen from a white tail rat to a baby girl. From the situations viewed in the Science department now, the students are in for a new and beneficial approach to Science.

Mrs. Wilma Hughes

Mrs. Mary Bohmfalk

Practical Arts is a most important department of San Leandro High School. Through this department, students are able to learn many important ideas that one may need within the future. The Practical Arts departments make all of the creative and interesting posters that are always on display throughout the school. This department must be give a great amount of credit for promoting school spirit among the students of the school.

Foreign Language has added an interesting and vital study program to many students of San Leandro High. With the outstanding staff, the Foreign Language department is well advanced in many areas. With Mrs. Aycrigg, a native of France, using her extra knowledge to make French interesting, and Mr. Jocz, the French class is a well balanced program of study. German, Latin, Russian, and Spanish, give each and every student an excellent variety by which they may choose a language. Each and every teacher on the Foreign Language staff, should be commended for their fine achievement in helping to better each and every student.

Business Education is a fine and prosperous way in which many students learn to become prepared for the challenges that will meet them in the business world. Its challenges beckon many students to take the opportunity to benefit from the classes. San Leandro High School is lucky to have such a fine department as this.

has many new and interesting ideas for this school year. Among other things, the staff has been working on a new system by which the different activities are chosen on an elective system. The boys' and the girls' department are working together to create a more equalized basis by which the students can benefit in learning P.E.

were made in the administration. Mr. Williams took over the job as principal while Mr. Vasser filled his seat as Vice-Principal. Mrs. Geritz remained as Dean of Girls and Mr. Walker became the new Dean of Boys.

The Art of Living Together...

is a life where no man stands alone. Through all the centuries of recorded time, men have set into motion influences that affect your life today. You are the heir of the ages. Men reaching for the stars have created for you a world of wonder and challenge... as you help men grow, as you work for peace, understanding and good will, your influence will merge into an eternal goodness... As you throw the weight of your influence on the side of the good, the true, and the beautiful, your life will achieve an endless splendor. It will go on in others, bigger, finer and nobler than you ever dared to be.

The Senior Class achieved many fine and admirable things this year. Under the direction of Don Pepper, student body president, the dress code revision took a major step towards being improved.

The Senior class sponsored a candy drive and many other worthwhile events, but the most important of all, was the Senior Prom. When the Class of '69 leaves this summer, they will have many fine memories to look back on in the future.

Senior class board: Meredith Asher, Donna Barbera, Ceva Bauer, Ken Blair, Rick Brumbaugh, Rich Coats, John Cotter, Larry Crowell, West DeMello, JMI Fisher, Rick Horn, Nancy Inns, Barbara Kendall, Marlene Mingian, Ken Mordoff, Muriel Moulton, Kathleen Quinnan, Ray Radell, Keith Robertson, Ellen Shibata, Dana Smith, Dave Stoker, Anne Wada, Carolyn Walker, Chris Wellman, Kim Wolshnis.

President Mark Martin had a busy fall semester.

Vice-President, Ken Jardin, and Girls' League Representative, Carol Marston, assisted in planning the Seniors' activities.

Sue Peterson, Kathy Stark, and Maurine Thullen

The Senior History of activities shows the class's constant concern for funds. During their sophomore year they held a magazine sale and a bottle drive plus the annual Soph Hop. Junior year was highlighted by the fantastically lucrative KYA Oneders basketball game and the effervescent Junior Prom. Their graduating year was the best year of all, including the Senior Ball, senior picnic, and, of course, the candy sale.

Over its Three Years of existence 1969's Senior class has been helped by several outstanding individuals, most notably the class sponsors and counselors. Headed by Mr. Earl McGhee, the sponsors, which include Miss Marilee Nowacki and Mr. Edward Foreman, aided the class in an advisory position. With so many seniors applying for entrance to junior colleges, colleges, and universities, the counselors, Mrs. Esther Hood, Mr. Samuel Levine, and Mrs. Violet Mc Laren, found this year a considerable strain. The counseling involved in getting a student into the right college requires tremendous energy and volumes of information on the schools available. This load is further complicated by the other problems brought on by seniors entering vocational programs. 1969 was truly a busy year for students, sponsors, and counselors alike.

"I Have Had Playmates

I have had companions,
In my days of childhood, in my joyful schooldays, -
All, all are gone, the old familiar
faces.

I have been laughing, I have been carousing,
Drinking late, sitting late, with my bosom cronies, -
All, all are gone, the old familiar
faces . . .

"I Loved A Loved One,
 fairest among women;
 Closed are her doors on me, I must not see her, -
 All, all are gone, the old familiar
 faces.

I have a friend, a kinder friend
 has no man:
 Like an ingrate, I left my friend
 abruptly;
 Left him, to muse on the old familiar faces . . .

Kay Seagren and George Ondeck -- Most Appealing Smile.

Bob Abel and Carol Guerrero -- Class Comedians.

Roxanne Clarke and Don Ferguson -- Cutest Couple.

Chuck Vogelsang and Carol Davlo -- Shyest.

Don Pepper and Deb Martin -- Most Likely to Succeed

Debra Moyles and Bert Ferguson -- Dimples.

"Ghost Like, I Paced

round the haunts of my childhood.
Earth seemed a desert I was bound to traverse,
Seeking to find the old familiar
faces.

Friend of my bosom, thou more than a brother,
why wert not thou born in my father's dwelling:
So might we talk of the old
familiar faces-...

Debbie Dowler and Gary Millhouse - Class Flirts.

Keya Kruger and Brad Cooper - - Most Athletic.

Ron Olivero and Margie Jones - - Most School Spirit.

Rich Postma and Wendy Efigenio — Most Creative

"How Some They Have

died, and some they have left me,
And some are taken from me, all are departed, •
All, all are gone, the old familiar
faces."

Don Rodriguez and Lynette Rego — Laziest

Marilyn Garrison and Ken Costa — Prettiest and Handsomest

The Class of 1969 could possibly go down in history as the least-spirited graduating class in San Leandro High's history. Defeated in the class spirit competitions, they showed little of the attitude which made them winners as undergraduates. Refusing to respond as a unit to those activities which make up a big part of high school, they left little incentive to the classes that will follow. Maybe they all felt there is something more important, maybe not. In the following pages are the views of the Seniors of the class of '69 and what they thought of just anything.

There Are Outstanding

qualities in everybody, but these qualities are also buried by the clique. Once one is a member of this "all important" group, all the ideas of the group are assimilated together, and a central train of thought dominates the thinking of all members of the group. Once they break away, they lose this main thought and become the unique persons that they are. The tragedy of this is, however, that occasionally the student is isolated from this group, and the result is a mild sort of antagonism and disassociation with people not a member of the group. This is the main reason for the lack of unity among the students.

The Main Problem with SLHS is the same one that's wrong with the world - Communication. The faculty is so concerned with what we wear, if we're on time, homework and just plain discipline, that I think they overlook the most important thing - how we're really growing - how well we relate to life. I wish we could think of each other as people, instead of "students", or "teachers."

San Leandro High has too many so-called "high class" people who think they're too good to yell at rallies and such. The cheerleaders and song girls have to have a lot of courage to do solos at every rally and assembly. Strange As It May seem, the big problem with the society is that it is moving too fast. Too often our accomplishments in science and industry are not matched by intellectual and emotional maturity. We are like children playing with dynamite, and when the explosion occurs, we'll never know what hit us. Who says we're ready for the stars? I sometimes wonder if man is ready for the earth.

Education Is a privilege, not a right, and it seems to me that many of the students at S.L.H.S. and throughout the nation, have either forgotten about or begun to take advantage of this privilege. It is evident that our generation is one of profound thinkers, and San Leandro High seems to have its share. During this past year, the "hair" issue has played a large role in school thought. I have heard many arguments for the abolishment of the present dress code by students, and during the fall I also witnessed these same people rudely display their distaste toward a person with an opposing view. I do not understand how a group who says "we are old enough and mature enough to wear our hair long and not have it interfere with our studies", can act as they have. Respect demands respect, and I think much more progress could be made if these students would be willing to sacrifice "some hair" for a mutual understanding with the faculty. Prove you are mature and then ask for a privilege; until that time you will gain no ground.

I Feel That The Past

three years at San Leandro High have been of valuable service to me. I have Mrs. Hood, my counselor, to thank for her guidance and help during these important academic years. In the past three years I have had the opportunity to have Mr. Romero as an Art teacher. Mr. Romero showed me both the encouragement and criticism in my work that is important to any artist. One of my most profitable experiences at San Leandro High has been serving as Art Editor of the 1969 Anchors Aweigh. When I graduate from San Leandro High I plan to attend California State College, Hayward. I am going to be an Elementary School teacher and continue to do work in commercial art and illustration.

Although The School

in no sense is perfect. I personally do not have a large gripe about the administration of our school. The largest gripe I have does not directly involve the school but rather the students in it. It bothers me to see all the complaints constantly made by many students because they aren't able to do certain things. While criticism is often needed in order to improve conditions, many of the complaints in our school are quite irrationally made and there is a tendency to overthrow all restraints. I believe that if every member of the student body will stop and realize how many privileges he or she has, many of the unnecessary complaints could be eliminated.

I Wish people would just be honest and true to themselves, and perceptive, sensitive, and just plain excited about life. But I suppose that's too idealistic, isn't it? If that happened there would be no more wars, prejudice, speed-freaks, or politicians—what would people do all day?

My Biggest Gripe about SLHS is the students. They have the notion that nothing can be accomplished by students for their benefit because of the so-called "old fashioned" administration. Working closely with them the past two years has proven to me without a doubt that this is untrue. If students present an organized plan for a change and go through the correct channels of getting a change made, things will be done. The process, although unfortunately a slow one, will eventually enable a change to take place since it gives people time to really evaluate the validity of the request and come to some solution. If students try to get a change by flagpole rallies and 20-page petitions, the administrators will immediately suppress it since they are making a demand that isn't really justifiable. In short, students can accomplish things if they do it in an organized, peaceful way.

Under The Vast category of social morality falls some of the world's greatest problems; war, racism, religious discrimination, economic discrimination. All these are questions of morality, the idea of doing the right thing. I feel that the idea of doing the right thing is to put yourself in the place of the individual that you're about to inflict your prejudices on before doing so. By doing this, you will realize how harmful and unfair you're being; in a very general sense how immoral.

It Would Be Hard

to limit it down to one person who has helped me the most in the past three years; I would have to include two people. First, I believe would be Mrs. Brown. She was the first person who encouraged me to think. She taught me how to assimilate knowledge so that it could be applied to many veins of thinking. She also lacks the facade that envelops most teachers. She breaks out of the authoritative role and speaks with the student on a personal basis — she talks WITH the student, not AT him. It was because of the lack of this facade that I was able to enlist her guidance in personal problems and ask her to write me various scholarship and college recommendations. Mr. Thayne has also been of considerable help to me, emotionally, more than any other adult. He has a very disarming nature. This, coupled with understanding, makes him a great counselor. When I have felt there was no one else to talk with and didn't know how to handle a situation, he helped me immeasurably.

Mrs. Brown and Mr. Vaz

have been the people most beneficial to me in the past three years. Mrs. Brown helped me understand a more personal side of teachers, as individuals rather than as instructors with tele-type lectures. She was as much a close friend as any of my peers, and I have always been sure if I have a problem that I can turn to her.

Mr. Vaz, during my senior year, has made me think for myself more than I ever have before. In his class he began asking us "why"?... "why" about everything, and I have learned to relate this same pattern of thought to my everyday life.

Politician's campaign speeches would be full of promises—to themselves. T.V. commercials would admit the real quality of their products. Your friends and enemies would tell you the truth about yourself. Our whole social, political, and economical structures would come crashing down like some gigantic avalanche. The effect of the A-bomb would be like a fire cracker compared to the destructive power of the truth on the world. The world is one gigantic lie. But that is my opinion. It Is Common to everyday see something in the newspaper about drugs. Even in our own school there have been students who have experimented with drugs. Why people want to ruin their lives and sometimes those of their friends, I don't know. Little is known about the side effects of these drugs and it is such a foolish way to have fun. This whole drug scene is nothing but an attempt to escape from the world. Drugs make you forget alright, but when the effects wear off you are right back where you started. It takes a much better person to face problems than a person who pops pills in his mouth or shoots himself full of drugs.

"Break Their Shells . . ."

Most people are concealed in their own shell which shelters them from much of the pain and joy of living. They are so concerned with themselves that they haven't time for others. This is one of the major causes of much of the misunderstanding and strife facing our society today. If people will just break their shells, even a crack, there is a possibility for the creation of a world in which people live harmoniously and productively.

Communication that is, the lack of it, seems to be a big problem these days. Someone has put a label on it and now everyone refers to it as the "generation gap." But the problem lies much deeper than between the generations. How can anyone expect two generations to communicate and understand each other when there is no communication or understanding within the individual generations? My greatest achievement this year and probably so far in my life is learning what communication really is and most of all learning to put it to use. In asking some of the questions answered throughout this section I was very depressed to see how few people were willing to divulge their feelings, to search their minds for answers to questions that have no doubt crossed their minds many times before. They seem to be afraid to let anyone know that they have something on their minds. They have something to say but they're afraid to say it. You'd be surprised how much you can learn about the world and about yourself by just talking to people. Before we can close the "generation gap" we'll have to close the gap that exists between ourselves.

In Today's Society

grades are a necessary part of a student's life. Grades are important for what they mean and stand for. They were and are a result, in my life, of many hours of hard work and many sacrifices. The grades I received were worth the effort, because they show what I have accomplished in my years as a student.

The grades, however, resulted in much more than a mark on a report card. They showed colleges and scholarship agencies how well I work and how others judge the work that I have done. The real importance of my grades has yet to be proven. How well I adapt and use the knowledge I have gained while achieving these grades will indicate the true worth of their existence.

Democracy is the worst form of government, except all the other forms that have been tried from time to time."

-Winston Churchill

The office of Student Body President is a rewarding experience for any student. It brings the student into the actual administrative body of the school and enables him to take a hand in running the school. Unfortunately, the majority of the students are not really aware of the tremendous potential of a student-run system of government. They have a stereotyped idea that students cannot really do anything because they think the administration has a powerful controlling hand. This feeling has caused many disappointments on my part which I feel could have been avoided.

I leave San Leandro High School with the feeling that students can always be an important factor in determining how the actual running of the school is done. I hope that students will continue to constantly voice their ideas, suggestions, and complaints. Only in this way can the school serve the needs and make improvements for its students.

Writing For The Cargo

and local press brought me in contact with a new brand of self-reliance. When there is a story to be turned in, someone to be interviewed, or arrangements to be made, the responsibility falls on you and you alone. That is, except when you come up with personalities like Win Currier and Mary McAllister of the MORNING NEWS who lightened the load considerably by giving generously of their time and energy to make sure that San Leandro received the coverage it wanted.

Journalism is one of the few occupations which allows a man to heighten his powers of creativity while performing his trade. Under the guidance of Homar L. Johnson and Mrs. Mary Hicks the Cargo staff changed the paper from its own publication to an effective sounding board of the student body. My close association with both advisors in the past two years has shown me how much more students can profit from education when they are constantly encouraged and helped along instead of being made aware of their periodic downfalls as young adults.

Music Is My Life

Everyone Needs some type of release in order to live happily. I found mine through acting. Drama has been a motivating force in my life. It not only provides me with an escape, but gives me an opportunity to express myself the best way I can. The work that goes into acting is not work to me - it is total enjoyment. I have found something that I can do successfully and rewardingly. In other words, I have found myself through acting, and I'm sure others can do the same if they just try.

Sports are a major part of student life at San Leandro High School. The Boys' P.E. Department coaches and participates in six major sports: Cross Country, Track, Football, Basketball, Baseball, and Wrestling. Sports of more limited participation are Tennis, Swimming, and Golf, and SLHS has several outstanding athletes in these areas too. The Girls' P.E. Department offers a wide range of activities including Tennis, Archery, Badminton, Figure Control, Dance, and Swimming. This was the first year that the Girls' P.E. Department offered an elective program and the response has been enthusiastic. Girls are hoping for even more choices, such as Gymnastics.

Ingenuity in the Practical Arts makes these three seniors outstanding. Sue Segale, chosen for her talent in the Homemaking department, says that she prefers to make her own clothes because she can always be sure of a perfect fit, the right style, and true economy. Anyone who sees Sue's attractive wardrobe can be inspired by such talent. The Business Department, urged by the large business interests in the community, has recently installed an advanced training center for aspiring secretaries. This program is individualized and allows the student to give their time to areas of both weakness and strength. The advanced program has produced some outstanding students in business, and the most outstanding student in '69 was Rhonda Morando. Jim Calvin was chosen the most outstanding student in Industrial Arts. Like the Business department, the I. A. Department has recently revamped its whole program and now offers advanced courses in Metal Work and Wood.

Fall 1968 Found The junior class of 1970 enthusiastically preparing for a money-making year. The class had made $122.39 in their sophomore year and only had $877.61 yet to make. At the first meeting of the new class board, 70'ers set down dates for a magazine sale, candy sale, Jr. Prom, Sr. Ball clean-up, and Graduation decoration. The magazine sale was the first money-making activity of the famed class. It took place Oct. 28 to Nov. 1 and brought the class a grand total of $235.14.

Next, the board spent time discussing the dress code and possibility of contributing to a scholarship fund, and held a class meeting on Oct. 28.

A cake sale held at Foothill Square on Dec. 7, and the class added $54.50 to it's growing treasury.

What's Wrong With San Leandro High? The Dress Code—I would abolish it. Closed campus—I would abolish it. Smoking, swearing, etc are going on in spite of the rules. I would simply have these things taboo in a classroom, but lunch and passing time, should be able to be used as desired.

I'm working on this question, what bothers me about society, as if I'm God, because one human can't do the job. I would unite our know-how with our needs and re-institute a more humane morality into the world, dedicated to making life better for each other. One that would develop each person into a human with an understanding of himself and others by interaction and becoming "thy brother's keeper."

There are three main futures for our country in order of probability, a police state, a shakier nation with deeper rifts, a post revolutionary country, or a state going through internal rebirth. The race problems will get worse. The war will have spread, with or without U.S. participation. Politics will either get more factionalized or will go underground and/or die out.

One Thing Bothers Me

about society, people don't help other people anymore because they "Don't want to get involved." I don't really think this can be changed. It's too late. The world would be a better place if more people would help each other.

It's hard to say what it will be like ten years from now. The war will be over, at least I hope so. Ten years from now we will probably still have race problems. If we haven't gotten together by now it will not make any difference ten years from now.

I Feel That Students should be able to pick their own courses according to their plans for life after high school graduation. Why waste valuable high school time for unnecessary courses? Each student should take courses that will benefit him most in his later life.

The phoniness and criticalness of people today really bothers me. Very few people are themselves. People copy the run of the mill styles, way of speaking, and way of acting. People are a put-on, not their natural selves. They don't express their real feelings about others, when they do, they're being overly critical. If people would just be themselves, doing their own thing, this world would be much better off.

In ten years, the United States will be "all shot up". There will be famines, over population, nuclear war, earthquakes, etc. Few people will be left. One of the above or other things such as floods, tidal waves, and plagues will kill people off. This country, what is left of it will be automated and computerized. There will be little hand work left—everything will be machines, robots, computers, etc. These rely on men in order to operate, so when man dies off, there will not be any use for these machines. The war in Viet Nam will be over, probably through a nuclear blast or the overtake of Communism. The race problem will always prevail, for it is man's nature to hate.

I Am Fully Satisfied with my present program and the subjects being offered for this year and next. After talking with several friends in the junior class, I find that most of them enjoy the classes that they have taken. I might add that the school has done an excellent job in maintaining and improving the music department and staff. The only thing I could suggest in the way of subject offering would be establishment of an R.O.T.C. program similar to the one at Oakland Tec.

The greatest single problem I think facing the American people at home is the problem of racial disorder. Several factors are causing the violence we read about daily, among them: (1) Certain black militant subversive organizations which tend to be pro-socialist or pro-communist. The purpose of these organizations is to widen and exploit the already visible gap between the white and black races. (2.) The hampering of our law-enforcement agencies in regard to arrest and investigative procedures by the courts. (3.) The breakdown of the observance of law and order (some include the word "justice" in this phrase; I think of justice coming from the law naturally; if not, new laws may be passed into legislation rather than breaking the laws to create justice) has led many of our citizens to embark on rampages of violence in the name of dissent and protection of rights while actually depriving others of their rights as guaranteed under the law. (4.) The failure of federal-initiated programs designed to benefit the black slums of our cities and the lack of jobs being offered by businesses.

—Rex Allen

I Imagine my school curriculum is about the best to be offered anywhere, but I must say my classes aren't too exciting. The teachers at San Leandro High are fantastically dull. This is true with most of them, but I must admit all of them aren't dull.

I have no gripes with San Leandro High except the foolish dress code and hair code. Times have changed, as the saying goes, and we aren't living in the 20's like most of the school staff would like us to believe. The staff would like the boys to have their hair cut like Adolf Hitler and the girls to dress like Prudence.

The one thing that bothers me about society is the so-called generation gap. It seems the only time an adult is or will talk about a teenager is if he has something bad to say about them. I guess the only way this problem can be helped is if our glorious older generation forgets their problems for a moment and looks at ours. The adults figure that all a kid had to do is go to school and bring home a shining report card. Well I have to say, they are wrong.

I don't think there will be any world in ten years from now because there won't be any people on the earth. It will just be a rotten, scarred mess like it always has been, except without humans.

I only have one comment to make and this is it, remember San Leandro High Staff your rotten students are going to be the ones teaching your grandchildren so show us how to do it.

There's Too Much Mock

sophistication. By this, I mean people are afraid to be natural, and they're restricted by the social structure. This inhibits them in doing what they'd really like to do. They will stop and think, "What people think?" I don't think I'd be able to do anything about this for how do you change a mass attitude?

I feel that people today are too solitary. Just working for themselves, don't "Want to get involved." I guess this is because of the greater population, bigger cities. I doubt if the country will have changed much at all because ten years is a relatively short time for changes to evolve. It could only change radically if it was through a revolution. I really doubt if there will be one of those in the next ten years. I feel militant aggressions are in the minority.

I think grades are made too important. You are working for a grade instead of the knowledge. Think how nice it would be if it was all "pass or fail." I don't feel I would learn less.

Hours of Practice, then hope. That has been my motto for the past 12 years of my life. I have been taking baton lessons since I was three years old and I can sincerely say that I will never regret it in the least. Unfortunately there were the times when I felt that the garbage can was the best place for that troublesome stick, but the constant prodding of my parents (especially mother) kept me working. I usually average about 2 hours of practice every day plus a lesson every week in San Jose.

However, for all the work put in there is some of the glory which comes out. Competing in contests has taken me as far north as Seattle, Washington, east to Washington D.C., south to Texas and Mississippi, and west to Los Angeles. The spirit of competition is grand and the tense feeling of nervousness never ceases to fill your body each time you step out on the floor to perform at your very best. There are the times when you blow it—but there will always be next year and a next time. The sigh of relief which passes through you when you realize that it's all over for now is only replaced by the excitement of the announcement of awards.

People think that the awards is where it all stops. That conception is so completely false. The people I have met will never leave my memory blank but always remind me that there is always good in everyone. The tears of joy and the tears of sorrow are all part of my competitive life. But it isn't for the personal gain that most kids twirl; it's for the pure enjoyment of a sport, one that can be used to entertain others as well. However, each time I perform and all other twirlers too, each one of us thanks God that we are able to add a little puzzle to someone else's life. What's that question I'm always asked... "How do you make that go through your fingers like that?"

—Dayna Digirno

A Problem that I feel is quite pathetic is how the students don't take advantage of their education. When our parents pay taxes they in turn pay for schooling, but we don't have to pay anything towards San Leandro School System. This means that we are allowed to go to school for 13 years without it costing anything. School is probably the only thing in life that is free that we will ever receive. But it's sad to see students mess around by talking to friends, writing notes, fixing their hair, and not paying attention to their teachers for their own recreation. We are all guilty of this some time or another, but some people continually do this. Maybe when these people get older they will realize that school was more important than their friends, but by the time they realize it, it might be too late. I think maturity can only change a person's self abilities, but maturity is a long road.

The problem with society today is that people or young adults are too dependent on their friends. Many people act, dress and mainly think the same as their groups just so they will be accepted. The minds of their friends are the only ideas these people have. They are afraid to speak out their own opinions for fear of being rejected. This in turn means that they are nothing without the backing of their friends. This tends to lead toward a kind of a person who has to constantly be with their friends for confidence and reassurance. This is so sad because there might be someone that you know who is like this. These people will have a terrible time when it comes to being forced to make an independent statement. The only way maybe to stop this is for people to spend more time alone thinking quietly of their own minds and individuality.

Despite Some Trouble

in getting together, the Sophomore class is doing a great job. The school year started with a football rally, in which, the Juniors and Seniors had the halls plastered with spirit signs. Being Sophomores, and not knowing about rallies, we were completely thrown overboard, having only two weary signs up. But, we have great plans developing for spirit week to show who really rules.

So far, we have had two money making projects, a cupcake sale and a paper drive. Because of our ads in the newspapers, posters in all major stores, notices on peoples' doormats, and mimeographed sheets on cars, our paper drive was a complete success. Combining the total profit from the two projects, we made approximately $100.00.

We were going to start selling The Worlds Finest Chocolate on December 16, 1968, but since the Seniors were selling it at the same time, we decided to post-pone our sale for a few months. We really are a great class, not only in athletics, but full of wonderful ideas.

The Loss Of individualism is said to be the inevitable result of a highly complex society. I don't believe that. Man gives up his own individualism when he refuses to involve himself, and in doing so, jeopardizes the individualism of all other men. Individualism has no meaning if it is a far-off ideal, sitting precariously on an ice-covered mountain. To be real, it must be applied. Individualism does not mean to isolate, but to join together with a unique awareness of the people who surround you. It does not mean the right to destroy a society just because some of the aspects of that society do not coincide with your dream world. As long as there is society, there will be laws and restrictions, for unfortunately, man has not yet reached the level of understanding where the almighty self is not the prime center of all being.

Change is needed, and it will come, but to tear down haphazardly will destroy the foundation on which the new must be built. Protests, strikes, and demonstrations will all have a part in the working of this change, but destruction never will and never has deserved a place in their ranks. Destruction brings with it only anarchy and chaos; peaceful demonstration a conviction and strength of unity.

The race crisis with which we are faced will not be solved in my generation, perhaps not in my children's, but it will be solved. It astonishes me that prejudice can be so strong in so many people, and that it is such a stubborn enemy. It is a very deep feeling in so many people, and it will take several generations to strain it out of people effectively, but it will occur, and I have faith in this conviction. People must and will see that the only way for the people of the world to ever achieve unity will be to recognize the humanness in all of them.

We Are Progressing

much more quickly today than ever before, even with riots and wars. We are learning that the only way we are going to get things done is to stand up for what we believe. In ten years the Negro will probably be looked upon as an equal. The governments will have become more negotiable with each other. But war will always be a problem. As long as there are people on this world who have different views, there will always be conflict. And heaven help us if the day comes when no one is an individual who can disagree with someone else.

I have a minor gripe about San Leandro society. San Leandro is very strict in the way it lives. San Leandro has been a white community and is noted for it. We should have more negroes either in the school system of San Leandro or living in San Leandro.

The Society of Today

is probably the most massive force of hate in the recorded history of time. It is like a brutal, vicious animal that lies in our hearts, minds and souls. Don't say you have no prejudices against anyone as it would be a lie. Somewhere along the line something has happened and from that time on you have held a grudge. Like a vicious animal tormented, it becomes the evil thing on earth. I don't mean just by some bar room fight at night, I mean year after year.

Wars are caused as a result of a nation feeling superior to other nations or when a nation is greedy for another nation's resources.

My solution to this and the racial problem is the philosophy expressed in the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." If people would accept this philosophy, we could solve all our problems.

Vegetables Unite in the great white Ghetto's high school. It's a great place for forgetting what is happening now. The teachers, with few exceptions, are afraid to stand for anything. They regard a student who might be curious about the blood in the streets, as a Communist, an obstacle in the way of their tenure status. The administration and faculty are trying to kill us and we are dying.

I want to read books that are being written now. I want to learn about life, not about commas. There is a lot of controversial air moving around this school. The city thinks that shutting it out will fix it. It won't when the kids in this clean, fresh airy school start breathing the outside filth something is going to break.

Society today has to be logical. No one can think with emotion. You grow up thinking the only way to live is to keep in a conforming, logical hole. Don't bother to reach, to care. Don't speak on an elevator. All that is to learn and to save and die with your profits. Don't wander out of a set pattern and only worry for yourself.

My program here is what is expected. I swim in the channels of formal learning. But out of school, I get in groups to talk, to be creative. I have gotten to the point where I feel that this school is something that comes before living. If school had a class in thinking, a lot of things would be different. A class where I can sit and think or talk, where I can be someone who has something important to say. A class where people can talk about American's fall to Facism or nonsensical things. I am dissatisfied with my curriculum here, I want to learn, yes, but not for the importance of status made by grades in "important" classes. If dissatisfaction is a sign of madness, as some say, I hope I am completely disorientated.

Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, 7th District, spoke to American Government classes on some of the operations of State Government and problems which he thinks the Assembly will have to face in the 1970-71 term. Assemblyman Crown cited crime, taxes, and student demonstration on state college and university campuses as some top priority issues. He expressed some concern about political control of our educational system, but also called for all students to permit others to study. The Assemblyman answered students questions about BART, taxes, and colleges.

The Plague and Enemy

of all students is the lesson-plan. Most teachers become so involved with the importance of the material to be covered in that one day, that the importance of really learning, not just absorbing information, is not really vital to them at all. The lesson plan rules! It is the teacher's creed, the substitute's boon, and the students' downfall. Often a very meaningful discussion is cut off by the teacher because "It's not what we are supposed to be talking about." I am roundly told that the number of protons in helium is much more important than the religious and moral implications of Darwin's theory of evolution, but in my slumbering mind, there is a flickering of doubt. But could the lesson plan be wrong? Heaven forbid!

It is at times like these that I feel it would be much more educational, in the true sense of the word, to be walking along a crowded street, just really seeing. The one thing that they always seem to forget to teach us in school is to be real and alive. The all-mighty grades, tests, and college records seem to be the motivating factor for all the faculty. If an undisciplined thought slips out, heaven forbid, the school board might hear. It seems to be an endless chain of "no-no's." I must get good grades under penalty of failing; the teacher must stick to the lesson plan under penalty of placing his job in danger, the school board under the eyes of the public, and the public doesn't know what's coming off.

The Art of Leadership. . .

is being a selfstarter. A leader creates plans and sets them in motion. He is both a man of thought and a man of action - - both dreamer and doer. He selects and mixes the positive colors of heart, mind, and spirit into the qualities of effective living: patience, determination, endurance, self-discipline, work, love, and faith.

A Full Schedule faced the different branches of student government this fall at San Leandro High. There was an overwhelming response from the entire student body for a revised dress code. Immediately the students set to work for a more up to date code. This issue and many others confronted the student government this year.

For All The Trouble

it caused, the dress code was probably the biggest fiasco the student body government has ever faced. From its controversial creation at the beginning of the year to its gradual fizzling out at the end of the year, all it did was create tension between the students and the administration and wallow in a bureaucratic tarpit that left little hope for its revision. But its most resounding effect was its revealing of how this student body works as a dissenting group. Poor is an apt description. Using the dress code as an excuse many students cried for student power they did not have the maturity to handle. Terms such as academic freedom and rights lost their meanings through their constant redefinition according to certain people's desires. How sad to see what was originally a good-intentioned crusade become a whimpering defeat.

The rally, held outside in the quad, began with a short skit by the yell leaders. Then the football team stole the show as they appeared in costumes portraying various characters. Brad Cooper played a ballerina; Ken Jardin, a grape stomper; John Hutchings, pizza maker; Bob Abel, go-go girl; Dave Bednar, dolly; Lou Paulo, hunter; Craig McClure, farmer; Craig Kitchen hippie; Gary Castro, opera singer; Dave Seymon, truant officer; and Greg Fanjul, Spanish dancer.

was presented by seven members of the American Conservatory Theater, here at San Leandro High. Their performance, given on December 4 during an assembly, included everything from slapstick to satire, displaying a brief definition of comedy. The term comedy was broken down into seven steps and the ACT performers presented scenes to demonstrate these steps plus a question and answer period at the end.

Three Twists of Fate the fall term play, was presented on December 5 and 7, in the gym.

The performance was a combination of three one act plays: Aria Da Capo, The Trysting Place, and The Lottery.

A fantasy showing the foolishness of men, Aria Da Capo by Edna St. Vincent is a protest concerning the foolishness and pettiness of war, hatred and greed. Characters include; Luray Canham, Larry Talariti, Volksmar Guenzlar, Vickie Molle and Dana Smith.

The Trysting Place, by Booth Tarkington is a comedy satirizing love and courtship. The main characters are; Marlene Mirigian, Terry Plunkett, Pam Chick, Ceva Bauer, Greg Marciel and Bob A. Red.

The performance ended on a more serious note with the presentation of The Lottery, by Shirley Jackson. This is an ironic and emotional drama demonstrating savage relations among men and condemns the use of meaningless and outdated rituals. The Characters include; Alice Pouttu, Jane Urish, Rich Fongheiser, Rich Skoonberg, and Vince D' Augelli.

The Music Department

of San Leandro High presented the annual Winter Concert, held on Dec. 18, in the gym at 8:00 P.M.

Under the direction of Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Zawistowski, the program opened with "A Hymn To Music" presented by the choir. Michelle La Force appeared next on the program singing "Laudate Dominum" by Mozart. The orchestra performed "The Vignettes, Tales from the Vienna Woods, and Sleigh Ride."

With professional style the Notables performed Ave Maria, a Gregorian chant. The program came to an end with presentations by the band and chorus.

Student accompanists were Lynette Becker and Harriet Winkler, and the narrator for the evening was Rich Skoonberg.

Guitars And Kazoos

highlighted the talent assembly presented to the student body on October 9, in the gym. Julie Wakefield opened the program with a song and dance version of "Thoroughly Modern Millie." Next came Michelle La Force singing "Born Free" and "The Impossible Dream", followed by Dayna Digirno who displayed her outstanding talent with batons. Two original folk songs were sung by Gloria Clay and "The Braillettes" entertained students with several selections from their record album. A ballet dance was performed by Jenny Rosenberg, and the program came to a close with Linette Reilly leading the Kazoon-heids in an unusual display of talent.

The assembly was so successful that the entire cast presented their acts for Pacific High School on February 11.

"Fiddler On The Roof"

was the delightful production that highlighted our spring assemblies this year. All the vocal music groups participated, inspired by the enthusiastic direction of Chief Leprechaun, Mr. Pat Daugherty. The story concerns a village in 19th century Russia, Anatevka, inhabited by Russian Jews. "Tradition", the first song of the show, told what held these Jews together in spite of the persecutions of the Czar. According to the tradition, Jewish children marry the mate their parents select for them, so the daughters plead with the "Matchmaker" to find them husbands. The parents' viewpoint came in with such numbers as "Sunrise, Sunset", and "Do You Love Me?" Two of the vocal numbers were accompanied by original choreography which captured the spirit of the athletic Russian dances. A decree of the Czar forces the Jews to leave their homeland, and despite the backdrop of the merrily dancing fiddler, the cast sang sadly of leaving Anatevka.

The Art Of Socializing

When we become socialized largely through learning our roles, we must learn to fill roles as a child, student, parent, employee, organization member or officer, member of a particular racial and social class, citizen and resident of a community. Role-learning involves at least two aspects: (1) we must learn to perform the duties and claim the privilege of the role and (2) we must acquire the attitudes, feelings, and expectations appropriate to the role.

Strenuous Hours of labor and lunch made up this year for the Anchors Aweigh staff. There were moments when it was apparent that no one had a thing to do (but they did) and then there were the days that went into nights that we all knew as deadlines. It was quite a sight to see the usually empty work counters crowded and then a voice in the back scream, "I need help." As a matter of fact I think that voice was everyone's at one time or another, and some people more often than that. When the deadlines were finally met, and we had received word that the pages made it to the printer's, everyone rested again...til the next deadline. Really though, the staff has put lots of hard work into this book and I think at least some part of it is a representation of all of us, and the school, too. This was such a unique year at San Leandro High that we have tried to do many new and unique things. For example, traditional school colors were partially abandoned for a more modern scheme of blue with lime green stripes. After all it's never been done before and that is what we wanted. The inside of the book was unique, too, in that there was copy on every double page spread and no headlines. These, the innovations, could not have been possible without the students outside the class. They are our book. For the second year, we put Yearbook Day into effect and found that it worked extremely well, (with the seniors buying the most books and getting a half of a day off of school in the spring.) Nevertheless, the most startling ground gained this year was a sudden rapport between the yearbook and newspaper staffs. Never before has communication been so readily achieved and sincerity been behind it. We have communicated with the Cargo staff and we hope that we have managed to communicate with you, the student body, too.

Cargo in one of its usual

There You Have It . . .

This year's Cargo was an experiment in high school journalistic freedom and originality. It was not so much an abandonment of the old Cargo format, as it was an intergration of new ideas and old.

Most important was a change in editorial policy. The editors attempted to make the paper an essentially neutral source in which any member of the student body could express his written opinion on any subject relating to student life, inside or outside school. The results were letters on dress control, curfew laws, expanded school regulations and facilities, plus the annual complaints about cafeteria fare. These, added to guest editorials by teachers and members of the administration gave the students a better view of school conditions.

Utilizing the more creative members of the staff and various outside writers, Cargo's feature editors outlined the "outside world" in general. Through feature stories and reviews they presented the more outstanding portions of our society's musical and motion picture arts, with a concentration on the more obvious mass-communication media, television and radio. Poems and satirical columns expressed the mystic and ironical sides of life.

To keep from becoming merely a publicity sheet, the news section of Cargo published articles concerning not only student school activities, but happenings within the faculty and the outside community as well. Stories on curfew and counseling changes were published side by side with school dance and term play articles.

Finally, that section without which the newspaper would hardly have been complete, the sports page, also made significant changes in its policy. To keep away from endless statistics, there appeared features on the more personal side of sports, thus rounding out the student body's image of Pirate spirit in action.

Joe DeMello and Mark Martin take and develop all Cargo pictures.

Do you really think better that way JH?

The Only Girl of San Leandro High's four foreign exchange students was Dorrit Nielsen of Denmark. When asked what Dorrit thought of the students who attended San Leandro High School her answer was, "Well, I think they are almost the same where I come from." Then she added that at her school they are a lot friendlier. But she had, she said, no hard time making friends. Dorrit stayed with senior Leigh Christopher and her family.

While Attending San Leandro High, Volkmar Guenzler, a foreign exchange student from Germany, made his American home with the family of junior Eliza London. Volkmar was amazed how fast someone could get used to customs in a strange country. He said, "During all my life in Germany I was walking everywhere—to school, to see my friends, or elsewhere. Now I've gotten used to driving a car and I would not want to walk anywhere."

Esa Revnanen who is seventeen and hails from a city on the west coast of Finland is among the group of foreign students who learn about our culture through his stay at San Leandro High. Esa lived with the family of Greg Marciel, a senior, who toured Finland last year.

Montevideo, Uruguay is represented at San Leandro High this year by Benjamin Postbrief. He made his home during the school year with Dr. and Mrs. Fred Meltz. Comparing schools, Benjamin commented that the seniors in his school studied all sciences and engineering.

Foreign Exchange Club

strives to make the foreign exchange students of our school more at home in their foster country. Meeting on the second and fourth Thursdays of the month, they learn about the customs of other countries through slides and films. Field trips and presenting one assembly for the whole school are some of the other activities of the club. The club also purchases an Anchors Aweigh yearbook each year for each of the foreign exchange students. The club's sponsor is Mrs. Jacobs.

Precision Marching . . .

highlighted the band's performance in the Veteran's Day Parade, where they held lead position as starting band. Twice the size of last year's band, they showed their progress during the Pacific game, continuing their rivalry with the Vikings. They gave their finest show to the music of "Finian's Rainbow" at the El Cerrito game. After a busy football season, they settled down to rehearsals for the Christmas Concert. Spring brought with it appearances in the CMEA Band Festival in Hayward, participation in the Spring Concert, and the giving of various concerts at Bancroft Jr. High and other schools in the area.

Marching Band at the end of a long day

Vocal Harmonics are performed by the Notables, an advanced group of eighteen singers chosen by audition. The year began with a performance for the P.T.A. of two pop standards "Scarborough Fair" and "Inch Worm" accompanied by a seven piece orchestra. Featured on the channel 5 Christmas television program, the Notables were also widely heard at school and exchange assemblies, vocal music festivals and the Winter and Spring concerts. Mr. Daugherty feels they should be equally "at home" with Gregorian Chant, Polyphony and Bach as well as the current swinging sounds of today.

A Quarterly Magazine...

Outstanding work in publications is rewarded with membership in Quill and Scroll, and international journalism honor society. Sponsored by veteran Cargo and Anchors Aweigh advisors, Homar Johnson and Barbara Brown, the clubs only formal function is an induction ceremony, although plans for the future include publishing a quarterly magazine with a journalistic format. To qualify for the distinction of membership, a student must be a senior and have had either a minimum of one hundred column inches printed in either the Cargo or a city newspaper or both, or have been a section editor on the yearbook staff.

Placed To Function . . .

Stagecraft is an elective class made up of no more than fifteen students that are selected by the instructor by recommendation. The class is broken into five categories: Light crew; sound crew; construction crew; and set designers. The other category is Stage Crew, in charge of moving sets and scenery changes between acts, handling props, and general management of production needs as they occur on and off stage. Students are placed to function within these crews according to their particular facility and orientation. The members of stagecraft are most concerned with working in collaboration with the department when term plays and musicals are in operation. During the rest of the year, the crews function on stage while controlling lighting, and sound-effects for dances and assemblies. Set designers play a role of a major importance when it is their responsibility to produce the scenery or sets for each play.

Art Advertisements

for the school are handled by the Art Service Department, under the leadership of Mr. Ken Curran.

Posters and banners are a specialty of art service. Signs for such school activities as car washes, dances, and sales are handled by this special art class. Making such signs is not their only duty, however; they are the ones who paint the big "S" on the broadcasting booth, above the football field, and on the side of the wall inside the swimming pool.

They also are in charge of all the showcases in the halls and all bulletin boards, as well as any special displays the school may be planning.

Twice each year these students also find time to do some sort of project. Each Christmas and Easter the Red Cross supplies them with materials and they make five hundred place mats to be given to the bed-ridden patients at the Oak Knoll Hospital.

Art service charges a fee for all art work. The fee makes it possible to operate the organization without a loss. The money collected pays for the materials, such as paint and paper, used in the art projects.

Promote Spirit . . .

Pep Club has always been known to raise and promote spirit, but this year it has taken on, along with its traditional spirit boost, a new branch. This branch is service. Playing hostess at PTA meetings and Block "S" gatherings has fallen into this category.

Pep Club is not only different in that scene this year, but for the first year it has elected officers. These officers are Sue Johnson, acting as President, and Donna Uhler assisting her as Vice-President. Peggy Pristia takes the minutes while Cheryl Greenwood takes care of the money by being Treasurer. Linda Seaver is in charge of all the publicity while Lisa Hammond is Sergeant-At-Arms. The new officers have revised the Pep Club constitution that was thrown out years ago and come up with a point system for members to go by.

This year the officers have worked with Mr. Thayne and Mrs. Brown to try to make Pep Club more fun and exciting for all of the girls.

the Girls' League serves the school. The girls' service organization, sponsored by Miss Sims, has main duties consisting of decorating the trees and doors for Christmas, and sponsoring the New Girls' Tea, held for the new girls of the school. All girls are automatically members of Girls' League, but become active members by buying a sticker at the bank. Girls' League also selects the girls for Big Sisters, an organization which helps new girls adjust to San Leandro High. Meetings of Girls' League are held once a month on a Tuesday, or more often when needed.

Interest In Sports

The Girls' Athletic Association, better known as G. A. A. is an organization designed to promote a greater interest in sports, to develop an understanding of true sportsmanship, and to create a spirit of friendship. Any girl with an interest in sports is welcome to join. Each girl can earn points by participating in the weekly meetings and any additional activities offered. These include two awards dinners, a swim-potluck dinner in the fall, a picnic in the spring, and several money-raising projects throughout the year.

When a girl has earned ten points, she is entitled to a membership card; for twenty-five points she is entitled to a pin; for fifty points she is awarded a numeral; for seventy-five points she receives her Block "S" and is eligible for membership in the Girls' Block "S" society. For each additional thirty-five points after her block, she receives a star.

This year the group has engaged in the selling of Gourmet Guide books of which the proceeds will go to Fuller School and San Leandro Scholarship Fund. This honor group also is allowed one day off from school a semester for an excursion. The fall outing is traditionally an educational one - - this year a trip to the movie "Romeo and Juliet." In the spring students meet at Little Hills Ranch for their annual picnic.

Ideas and Idealism This year's Library Club began with a few deeply involved students - - heads full of ideas and idealism - - concerned with discussing the world's problems and doing something about them. They talked their ideas over with Mr. MacInerney, the school's Number 1 idealist, and agreed to re-activate the Library Club with Mr. MacInerney and Mrs. Force as the club's sponsors. Then the club came up with a fantastic idea - - organizing a school-wide Biafran Fund Drive in an effort to save precious human life in a faraway land. It was a success which no one had expected. Now the club is organizing a Biafran Drive for all of San Leandro, discussing plans for a Save San Francisco Bay Project, planning trips to the U. C. Press and San Quentin Prison, talking about Project Oakland, and coming up with more fantastic ideas.

Students of S.L.H.S. were treated to many exciting and thrilling moments this fall due to the efforts of our Varsity football team. Under the direction of Coach Ben Shorum, the Pirates battled their way to another successful year, completing their season with a respectable 6-3 record, and placing third in the rugged A.C.A.L. The team received further honors by ranking as the 15th team in the entire East Bay. Both of these distinctions were due to the combined efforts of the coaches and the players.

Gary Millhouse Was One

of the biggest reasons for the Pirate's success this year. Gary was honored upon completion of the season by being selected to the A.C.A.L. All League team on both offense and defense. He made these comments about this year's Varsity squad:

"I think our team played far beyond what was expected of us this season. When the going got rough we were able to stick it out, although we didn't always come out on top. This is a quality taught to me in football and I hope it will remain with me throughout life. If one is able to hang on when the going gets rough he will always succeed."

this year's Varsity were honored by being selected to the All-ACAL Football Team. Gary Millhouse headed the list by being named to both offensive and defensive first teams. Ken Costa was chosen as an All-League linebacker, and was placed on the second team offense as a guard. George Ondeck, who was injured for most of the season, still managed to make both the offensive and defensive second team. Also receiving Honorable Mention were Ken Young, Charlie Simpson, Brad Cooper, and Don Rodriguez.

Ken Costa, Linebacker. . . .

"Football is a game that requires a great amount of physical and mental preparation. Before each game, I try to get myself mentally ready to kill someone. It's the instinct that keeps me up throughout the game and enables me to perform at my best."

Ken Young, Tackle . . . . I think our team played far beyond the expectations of the coaches. We had many outstanding players who played along with a fine team all working together. Football is a game of glory and heartbreak. Our team has experienced both.

The J.V.'s move in on a loose ball.

J.V.'s Sparked Spirit as they posted a fine 6-3 record, and revealed many prospects for next year's Varsity team. Coaches Bob Hidago and Ken Miller worked hard throughout the fall months in an attempt to prepare their players for Varsity action. In their first game of the season, the JV's met Kennedy and were defeated 25-13. Following their opening defeat, the Junior Varsity roared back for five consecutive victories. They met defeat only two more times in the season, and in their final game whipped Berkeley 12-6 in the mud. Hard work and determination throughout the year aided the Junior Varsity in their successful season and should provide another league contender next year.

for the season, preparing them for the varsity squad in '71. To get a first hand account of the team's action, we asked Tom O'Neill, one of S.L.'s best sophomore ball players to comment on the '68 season: "As far as the season is concerned, I felt we did a real good job. We played a lot of hard teams and held up fine. The coaches put in a lot of men in each game and everybody got some good experience. I feel our Junior Varsity team will be better and our Varsity team will be the best yet. We had good teamwork and good coaching, and that's just about all you can ask for."

San Leandro Striders

are alone in their work. There are no crowds to cheer them on, only the teammates and the sound of their own straining breath. The San Leandro Cross Country team is made up of athletes who work hard and take the sport seriously. They have an extremely hard and time-consuming training program of before and after school workouts. Sometime, if you're up early, look out your window, you might see a member of the team. At the close of the season, San Leandro placed sixth in the A.C.A.A. championships. Pictured below are some shots from some cross country meets.

Ten Top Runners . . .

make up San Leandro High School's varsity Cross Country squad, and any boy is eligible to try out. All it takes is a love of running, a lot of willpower, and about three hours a day before and after school practices. When the team wins it is due to the many talents of Coach Collins. The Cross Country competition consists of three two mile runs. When asked about his sport, Rich Postma (the Pirate's number one runner) said "The real running starts after you start to ache." He also added that if Cross Country was to have a motto it would be "Pain is fun".

The 1969 Basketball

Season was a time of great disappointment and unfulfilled destiny. During the pre-season the team developed into one of the strongest in San Leandro's history. However, just before league competition began a crisis arose in which Coach Ed Collins was forced to resign, and one of the team's finest guards, Rick Trujillo, was declared ineligible. Forced to rebuild in the midst of competition the team faltered and was unable to regain its early expectations. Special recognition must be given to Mr. Daley for his fine job upon taking the position of coach. He was placed in extremely unfavorable conditions, yet was able to do a fine job. The team's continued spirit was an example of their never-die attitude. Their competitiveness lasted throughout the entire season. They never gave up. This is the sign of a great team.

Mr.E.Collins "I feel that it was extremely unfortunate that Rick was unable to finish his Senior season. I was really sorry that this whole predicament ever occurred. It ruined our chances of having a truly outstanding team and a really great season. After our victory in the Anderson Tournament our team had a feeling of unity; we all knew the squad could have a successful season if we all worked together. As it turned out we were never given a chance to prove ourselves as a team, yet each individual who had a part in our problem realized that if we had been given our chance, we could have gone all the way."

Rick Trujillo "I'm really sorry about the raw deal that Mr. Collins was given. I will always respect and admire him as a coach, a person, and a man. He was always behind me 100% even though there were times when I felt everything was lost. He never lost hope for me. It's too bad because we had a team that had the spirit and ballplayers that would have made San Leandro a basketball power here in the East Bay and now it all went down the drain. It seems that San Leandro never has a good basketball team, but this was gonna be a different year. Too bad it never happened."

Rick Vogelsang raises interest in the team's petition.

A Crisis Involving the eligibility of senior guard, Rick Trujillo, ruined San Leandro's chance of having a championship team. Rick had been declared ineligible for league play, but he was allowed to participate in the Anderson Basketball Tournament. Coach Collins had assumed that Rick would be eligible for the tournament as it did not involve league teams. Upon returning home it was discovered that Rick was not to have played in the tourney. Having played an ineligible player, the first-place trophy was forfeited, individual medals were taken away, and coach Collins was forced to resign as coach. Perhaps if Rick and Mr. Collins had been able to continue with the team San Leandro might have become a true basketball power.

Ron Olivero "I owe my whole basketball career to one man, Mr. Ed Collins. Mr. Collins built the strongest basketball team ever seen at San Leandro High School. He spent a lot of time during the summer which he did on his own time. He also did alot of personal things for different ball players who had problems. He helped different players on our team to become better basketball players. This year, after winning the Anderson basketball tournament, which was the first tournament victory in San Leandro history, our team was ready to go out and try to get first place in the A.C.A.L. However, stricken by the loss of one of the best guards in the league, Rick Trujillo, and the loss of Coach Collins, our team was down. We had to use a lot of Junior Varsity and Sophomore material which hurt us because of inexperience. It wasn't the juniors' and sophomores' fault we had a bad season, they didn't have the experience to do the job of a senior or a good junior. The team would like to thank the faculty and student body for backing our team, and we'd like to give special thanks to Mr. Daley for being our coach after Mr. Collins resigned."

This Year's Juniors Varsity and Sophomore basketball teams worked diligently throughout the season in an effort to prepare players for future varsity action. Although their individual records were not outstanding, both teams provided several promising prospects for the next year's team. The sophomores, under the direction of Coach John Garcia, spent many hours learning the basic fundamentals so vital to a successful team. Working along with the Junior Varsity, coached by Ben Shoram, the two teams battled together to aid the Varsity of future years.

This Year's Varsity wrestling team began to move in the direction of establishing itself as a real power in A. C. A. L. competition. Behind the ability of the "three musketeers" Ken Erhardt, Pete Bierwith and Rich Silva, the team showed improvement over last year's season. Although the team will lose the "three musketeers" to graduation, several capable Juniors and Sophomores will return for competition next year. Juniors Auggie Covarelli and Tom Boscow proved they could handle the rugged level of competition along with three sophomores; Jerry Davelin, Ken Gibson, and Jim Nolan. With these five wrestlers returning as a nucleus for next year's team. S. L. H. S. can look forward to a powerful team in coming years.

Twelve Peppy Girls were ready to help lead the football team to victory as the 1968 fall sports season began. At tryouts, held in the gym last May 5, 6, 7, and 8, the five girls chosen for cheerleaders were seniors; Patti Bean, Sidney Black, Pam Gibson, Margie Jones; and junior, Penny Sherizen. The seven girls chosen as song girls were seniors; Marilyn Garrison, Carol Mazzei, Martie Way, Kim Woishnis; and juniors; Mary Alves, Yolanda Pacheco, and Sandi Westbrook.

Later Margie Jones was elected head cheerleader and Marilyn Garrison head song girl by the student body.

During the summer, Margie and Marilyn travelled to yell leading camp at Squaw Valley, with Mrs. Brown, pep squad sponsor, serving as chaperone. Both girls received trophies and ribbons for their excellent performance.

This is my yearbook and, for the past year, much of my life. Writing now, I feel empty at the thought that the many mishaps, worries, and hours of hard work are over — yet satisfied that something good has been done. I hope to anyone who looks at it, this book brings enjoyment and pleasure.

All of this became financially and materially possible through the efforts of Mr. David Vicary, Kee Coleman Studios, Mr. Rip Serby, and Mr. Frank Herdes, professional photographers; "our" Mr. Don Freeman, whom we could never do without, Pischel Yearbooks, Inc., the printing company; Larry Alphin, our photographer; and you the buyer.

The backbone of the book, its spirit, has been a result of everyone's efforts — Dave's "The Art of Living," Mary's "Lettering Lady" captions, Sandy's "h-h-h-h's," Danya's lunch hours, Jessie's weekend in Tahoe, Larry's "out Debbie's," Mrs. Grove's "What are we gonna do?" and "Everything will turn out all right!" — all in one sentence, Pam's punctuality on deadlines, Jon's "mounds" of help, Marit's phone calls, Bobbie & Wendy — thousands of 8x10's and from everyone else, lot's of devotion.

How can one person say thank you to so many for something that means as much as this book does to me? I really don't know. Each of you on the staff has a part of you in the section you worked on, part of me is in every page. Thank you for making a dream come true... my dream.
